RP called and stated that her neighbor was mowing his yard and that he always goes onto their property every time he mows the lawn. I advised her that property line disputes are a civil matter and must be handled through the courts. I told her I would talk to the neighbor and express her concerns. I responded and spoke with the neighbor and found out that this issue has been going on for a long time. I spoke with both sides and told them that the only definitive way to know where the property line is by getting a property line survey done. The RP called back again and said the neighbor's daughter had walked on her property with a dog. I told her that she would need to call EPSO to file a complaint of trespassing and I told her that EPSO will want the property line survey to be done before they will enforce trespassing. The RP called EPSO and they said the exact same thing I did. The RP called a third time trying to give me proof that he was trespassing and I told her that nothing can be done until she has a property survey done. I told her that we would not respond for a property line dispute.
